PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 36 (Oklahoma) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 36 (Oklahoma) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsman, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section, and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

OKLAHOMA

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—The Territory of Oklahoma was organized in 1890 from the western part of Indian Territory and the Public Land Strip, originally a part of Texas. In 1893 the Territory was enlarged by the addition of the Cherokee Outlet, which fixed part of the present northern boundary. In 1907 the Territory and the remaining part of the Indian Territory were combined and admitted to the Union as the forty-sixth State with boundaries substantially as at present. Upon the settlement in 1930 of a boundary dispute with Texas, Oklahoma assumed its present limits. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Decennial Census, was 2,233,351. The State has a land area of 69,031 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 32.4 inhabitants per square mile as compared with an average of 33.7 in 1940. Among the States, Oklahoma ranked twenty-fifth in population and eighteenth in land area.

The area constituting substantially the present area of Oklahoma had a population of 258,657 in 1890 (table 1). In 1950, 60 years later, the population of the State was about 9 times as large. The population more than tripled between 1890 and 1900 and more than doubled over the next decade. The rate of growth for the succeeding two decades was more moderate; and in both the most recent decades the State lost population. The decline between 1940 and 1950 was 103,083, or 4.4 percent, as compared with a decline of 59,606, or 2.5 percent, between 1930 and 1940.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landladies, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940.

In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of Oklahoma comprised 1,139,481 persons, or 51.0 percent of the population of the State (table 1). The urban population was living in the 86 urban places in the State and in other territory included in the urban fringes of Oklahoma City and Tulsa and the Oklahoma part of the urban fringe of Fort Smith, Ark. More than two-fifths of the urban population of the State was in urbanized areas (table 2).

The rural population of Oklahoma numbered 1,093,870 persons, or 49.0 percent of the population of the State (table 1). Of the rural population, 130,483 persons, or 11.9 percent, were in the 81 incorporated places and 2 unincorporated places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants.

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,¹ and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprised all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

According to the 1950 urban definition, the urban population of Oklahoma included the following components: (1) The 1,107,252 inhabitants of the 85 incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more; (2) the 3,355 inhabitants of Veterans Village, the 1 specially delineated unincorporated place of 2,500 inhabitants or more; and (3) 28,874 persons living in other territory included in the urban fringes of the Oklahoma City and Tulsa Urbanized Areas and the Oklahoma part of the urban fringe of the Fort Smith, Ark., Urbanized Area. Since there were no places urban under special rule in Oklahoma according to the old definition, the population of the first element constituted the urban population under the old definition. The population of the remaining elements—32,229—represents the gain in the urban population of Oklahoma which resulted from the change in definition.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1890 to 1940 are given in accordance with the 1940 definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old definition. On this basis, the urban population of Oklahoma rose from 58,417 in 1900 to 1,107,252 in 1950. The most rapid rate of growth over the 50-year period came in the decade 1900 to 1910, when the urban population increased by 446.0 percent. The largest numerical increase was in the 10-year period ending in 1930. The increase of 227,589 between 1940 and 1950 represented a gain of 25.9 percent over the 879,663 persons enumerated in 1940. All 22 of the cities of 10,000 inhabitants or more for which population figures are available for 1940 and 1950 shared in the gain in the urban population, with the rates of increase ranging from 0.9 percent for Guthrie to 136.3 percent for Norman (table 4). In 1900 there were 20,043 persons living in the 2 cities of 10,000 inhabitants or more in the State; by 1950 there were 823,660 persons living in the 23 cities of this size (table 3). The proportion of the population of the State living in urban territory increased from 7.4 percent in 1900 to 49.6 percent in 1950.

The rural population of Oklahoma rose from 731,974 in 1900 to 1,574,359 in 1930 (table 1). In the following two decades, however, the rural population declined. The loss between 1940 and 1950 was 330,672, or 22.7 percent, as against a loss of 117,588, or 7.5 percent, for the previous decade. Over the 50-year period the proportion of the population of Oklahoma living in rural territory fell from 92.6 to 50.4 percent.

Counties.—The counties in Oklahoma ranged in size from Cimarron with a population of 4,589 to Oklahoma with a population of 325,352 (table 5). Between 1940 and 1950, only 11 of the 77 counties in the State increased in population. Only 5 of the counties which gained population were among the 29 which had had increases between 1930 and 1940. As in the previous decade, Oklahoma County had the largest numerical increase. The most rapid rate of growth took place in Cleveland County, which increased at the rate of 49.5 percent.

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which counties are divided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil divisions." The minor civil divisions in Oklahoma are the townships, cities (except Muskogee and Vinita), and towns. (Platt National Park is also classified as a minor civil division.) Muskogee and Vinita are coextensive with the townships in which they are located.

Table 6 shows statistics on the population of each county by minor civil divisions for the last three censuses. The population of Muskogee and Vinita and of the unincorporated places is shown in italics under the population of the minor civil division in which it is located. When an incorporated place lies in two counties, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 in the appropriate counties, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. Unincorporated places are designated by "uninc." Changes between the 1940 and 1950 Censuses in the boundaries of the areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 864-870, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—In 1950 Oklahoma had 526 places incorporated as cities or towns and 3 unincorporated places of 1,000 inhabitants or more. There were 1,367,617 persons living in the incorporated places, 260,365 of whom were living in the 441 places of fewer than 2,500 inhabitants. Of the 5,655 inhabitants of the unincorporated places, 2,300 were in the two places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants, Tuxedo Park and Wright City. The incorporated places ranged in size from Santa Fe city with a population of 8 to Oklahoma City with a population of 243,504.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages, with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census includes all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—There were two urbanized areas entirely within Oklahoma and another partly within the State. The first two areas, the Oklahoma and Tulsa Urbanized Areas, had 275,091 and 206,311 inhabitants, respectively. The Oklahoma part of the Fort Smith, Ark., Urbanized Area had a population of 1,691. Of the 483,093 persons in Oklahoma living in urbanized areas, 426,244 were in the two central cities, Oklahoma City and Tulsa, and 56,849 were in the urban fringes. The urban fringes included a population of 33,283 in the nine incorporated places and 23,566 in the unincorporated parts (tables 2 and 9).

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940, and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts. (See urbanized area maps.)

An urbanized area also may be divided into central city or cities and urban fringe as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe:

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.

2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.

3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.

4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

¹ According to the new urban definition, the urban population comprises persons residing in urban territory but not necessarily in an urban place, which is defined as an incorporated place of 2,500 or more, or an unincorporated place of 2,500 or more located outside an urbanized area. Under the old definition, incorporated places of 2,500 or more and places urban under special rule are classified as urban places. There were no places urban under special rule in Oklahoma.

² Includes 28,874 persons in urban territory outside of urban places.
